Whisky and free trade generally get the upperhand of the democratic party.

The business men of the country want President Arthur recominated. There s no foolishness or jobbery about his administration.

It would n't be a matter of very great surprise if Robert Lancoln should finally be taken as a compromise candidate and placed at the head of the licket.

Mr. Conkling is making money "hand over fist,' in his profession-some $150,000 or $200,000 a year-but that he is not earning what he most craves, reputation.

The wool interest of Ohio may be a little thing in the estimation of some democratic congressmen, but next fall it will give the democratic party some pretty hard kicks.

Mr. Beecher makes this photograph of Tilden: "It is one of the seven wonders of the world to me how the democrats stick to Tilden. Ho is no more to be compared to a full-grown, able-bodied man than a flitch of bacon in a smokehouse to an active young pig in the

There will be an unusual demand for tickets or admission to the national re. publican convention. Already, Mr. John A. Martin, of Kansas, secretary of the national republican committee, is overwhelmed with applications for such tickets. Mr. Martin has not the power to grant tickets. The distribution of them will be left to the delegates. The tickets will be apportioned among thom pro rate, and the delegates will give thom to whom they like. It is not yet known how many tickets each delegate will have, but the number will probably be less than four years ago. On several days the number of tickets distributed by the delegates and the national committee exceeded the capacity of the great hall which was then between 11,000 and 12,000. It is understood that to prevent such a promiseuous distribution of tickets as existed in 1880, the delegates will have the entire mutter in their own hands-taking each a certain number and disposing of them as they deem most judicious.

The report has been started in Washington that the Grant boom for the presidency will be one of the big tides within a month. It is claimed that he is much stronger than he was in 1880, that he would carry several southern states. and would make New York certain for the republicans. It is said, however, that General Grant is not pushing himself, but that Logan and others of the old guard of 1880 are plauning to make an earnest movement to make him the candidate should President Arthur fail of a nomination. There may be some foundation for this report, but the probabilities are that the Grant boom will not grow to any considerable proportions. The plan new is to make the ticket Grant and Lincoln, thus giving the republican ticket double strength. But this is all speculation, and although it may be within the realm of possibilities, the probability is that General Grant will not be a pronounced caudi-

Here is a conundrum proposed by a democratic paper in Cincinnati: "Why should a saloon in Obio have more influence than a shoomaker's shop?" With the democratic party the saloon has the greater influence and always will. The saloon seems to be an establishment that the democratic party feels compolled to foster and defend. But in Ohio, the democratic leaders couldn't control the majority of the democratic members of the legislature on the whisky question, and that body adjourned in a row. The Scott law was a republican measure. In one year it put two million dollars in the county tressuries of the state, therefore proved popular the masses. Morrison's Tariff Bill Taken Up in the House by a Close Vote.

Its Author Starts the Orbate and Judge Kelley Follows .... Analysis of the Vote-Other Capital News.

WASHINGTON CITY, April 10 .- At the conclusion of the call of committees in the house Morrison submitted his long threatened motion to go into committee of the whole of the tariff bill. Elicridge, of Michigan, do-manded a division on the question. Kelley, of Pennsylvania, said he hoped no division would be insisted on; this point could be made after the house had gone into committee. The house then went into committee, Cox., of New York, in the chair, and the Morrison bill was read by title, when Eaton, of Connecticut, objected to its consideration. The committee rose and the fact was reported to the house. The yeas and mays were demanded, and on seconding the demands both sides rose on masse. The vote was both sides rose on masso. The vote was taken, and the house, by 140 year to 133 mays, directed the committee to proceed to the consideration of the bill.

Morrison road his speech from manuscript.

At the outset he adverted to the passage in the prosident's annual message referring to the large surplus revenues of the govern-ment, not needed for public use, and argued ment, not needed for public use, and argued that congress could not fail to relieve the people of this needless taxation and surplus, and their attendant ovils, without flagrant disregard of public duty. He did not claim that the bill would afford all the relief demanded, but it was a stop in advance and a propriet of more complete avenue and an exercise. promise of more complete revenue reform to attalu which a general revision of the tariff and more equitable adjustments of rates on detiable articles is essential. A horizontal reduction was not the most loginormontal reduction was not the most logical, or best, but none other was practically. He referred to Sonators Morrill and Shorman, and Representative Kelley, as the chief architects of the new tariff act, as finally perfected. Their work was harmonious and perfected. Their work was harmonious and consistent. They laid some duties as low as 10 and some as high as 100 per cent., and these are to be reduced 20 per cent., or to 8 and 80 per cent.; so that relatively they would remain the same. The insufficient, not to say deceptive, character of the late revision, the manner of mailing it and the circumstances attending its adoption, alike forbade that it should be permanent. After intimating that the manner caused their areas to be the manufacturers caused their agent to be made president of the commission, who se-cured many changes to the advantage of the nanufacturors, be added: "I bardly need to manufacturors, he added: "I hardly need to say that a revision procured through such agencies and mothods is entitled to no respect whatever. A tariff too low," he continued, "necessitates a change to obtain needed revenue. When too high, as ours is, change is necessary to avoid a surplus from imports on which the duty is not prohibitory. The only security from neighbor and change is to con-

security from agitation and change is to con fine the taxing power to its rightful purpos of obtaining revenue limited to the necessi ties of the government," Morrison claimed that the laborer wages was at least as well paid, and the farmer better paid, in 1800 than now; while in 1860, a year of bounteons plenty, our importations of foreign goods were less in proportion to population that in 1880 and 1883, and during the past few years wages have been as low or lower than before the distribution palicy as a protontial have been as low of lower than before the adoption of the taxing polley as a pretended means of raising wages. It derring to the "Ohio" platform he said if this platform had an honest menting, it is that the tariff shall be lowered to a revenue basis, and gentlemen deceived themselves who expected the people to be deceived by a refusal to legislate in accordance with this declared purpose. Finally, he said if the protective policy was to be the continuing nolley of the governto be the continuing nolley of the govern-ment, it would be, and ought to be, entrusted to its friends, the Republican party.

Third Annual Banquet of the Troquois Club.

ing Campaigu ... A Letter from Tilden The Federal Constitution - -- A Notable Gathering.

CHICAGO, April 10.—The braves of the Irequeis club hold, in the Palmer house, their third annual banquet, which was in all respects one of the most significant and successful Democratic ralloys over held in Chi-cago. About 400 mon, distinguished among the national and local Democracy, sat down to dinner, before exchanging their views on the all-absorbing topic of Democratic victory in November. All the tables were gorgeously decorated with smilax and flowers, and an orchestra of twenty pieces played at inter-vals during the evening. The monu em-braced everything an opicure could desire vars during an opicium could desiro with the single exception of champagne.

Among those present were: John W. Donne, of Chicago; J. R. Donitthe, J. Starling Morton, of Nebraska; M. W. Fuller, of Chicago; Congressman, J. H. Murphy, of Jowa; F. H. Winston, Gen. J. C. Black, of Dauville; T. Lyle Dickey, Judge Lambert Tree and A. F. Seoberger, of Chicago. To the left of President Phelps were Rev. Dr. Clinten Locks, of Chicago; Col. W. C. P. Breekinridge, of Kentucky; Mayor Carter H. Harrison, David Turple, of Indiana; Mayor O'Brien, of St. Paul; B. W. Hanna, of Indiana; Major Gonaral Schoffeld, of Chicago; W. C. Goudy, P. A. Keily, of St. Paul; Lyman Trumbull, George C. Walker, M. H. Ham, S. Cerning Judd, of Chicago, In the banquet hall bit gentlemen were scated.

Erskine M. Phelps, president of the club, presided and made a short address of welcome. Michigan, president of the Burlington and come.

"The Republic an Indivisable Union of Indestructible States," was the theme of Col. W. P. C. Breekspridge. His oration was a masterpione of rhetoric, and was very long. His exposition and denunciation of the methods by which Tilden was, as be affirmed, counted out in 1876, was the climat to which all his doquence attend itself, and was re-ceived with cheers.

The third speaker was Senator G. H. Pen-dleton, and his remarks upon "Reform of the dleton, and his remarks upon "telebra of the Civil Service," were received with unbounded onthusiasin, and proved the most notoworthy of the responses given. The senator, who has made this subject his earnest study for many years, began with these words: "The sentiment to which the kindness of your president has invited me to respond touches dentity the reform." every question of administrative reform; it suggests reform of the revenue laws, re-vision of the tariff and correction of its inequalities and inequifies; reduction of taxa-tion, abandonment of the system of opposes-sive burdens, redundant revenues, the enormous surplus with all its extravagances and corruptions, and the adoption of a system which shall leave with the people the earnings of the people, and not extert them by the tax-gatherer to be doled out afterward, the tax-gatherer to be doled out afterward, according to the caprices of a paternal government." The senator arragued the spoils system of the present administration as only surpassed in brutality by the barbarism of the victors in ancient days of war and carnage. He advocated the introduction of business principles in the administration of public affairs.

A telegraph was read from Governor

A tolegram was read from Governor Hoadly, who was much to be present, which declared that with either Tilden or Payno as the Democratic nominee for president the Democratic majority of last fall in Ohio could be more than sustained.

A LETTER FROM TILDEN.

A very interesting feature of this portion A very interesting relative trial persons of the ovening's exercises was the reading of a letter from Samuel J. Tilden to the club, in response to the teast: "The Federal Constitution!" Mr. Tilden gives as his reason for non-attendance his engressment with business that the public of the property of t abandoned. Ho quotes the roply of Gouv meur Morris, who had been a conspicuous member of the convention that framed the constitution, "That depends upon how it is member of the convention that framed the constitution, "That depends upon how it is construed;" and then continues:

"The Democratic party originated in a resistance by more advanced particus of the revolution to the efforts which were made to change the character of our government by a false construction of the constitution, impressing on the new system a monarchical bins. "
Not only have the best traditions of patriots who wen independence and established freedom, lost their authority, but our cherished political system is slowly losing its hold upon life under fungus growth of false constructions and corrupt practices. Government itself has become a memoring factor in elections. As long ago as 1876 1 expressed the opinion that the opposition must embrace at the beginning of the curvass two-thirds of the voters to maintain a majority at an election. In this, history repents itself. * * * * Our government, instead of standing as an impartial arbiter amid the conflicts of maturing opinion and contending interests, has descended into the arona equipped with all the weapons of partizanship. Its myriads of office-holders, its alliance with or against vast pecuniary interests, its unlimited command of money levied from its dependants and contractors, have sufficed to determine a majority in every case but one. In that case it collected unlikery forces around the ampliton, and by their and other menaces, intiminidated congressional representatives of a majority of the people to relinquish the fruits of their victory, and to surrender the government to the control of a minority. No reform of administration is possible so long as the government is directed by a party which is under the dominion of false doctrines, animated by enormous pecuniary interests in the people of the first of their victory, and to surrender the government must be a fundamental change in the pelley of its administration. The work of reform will be difficult cuough, with the whole power of the government exerted in accomplising it. I have such f onstrued;" and then continues:

BAYARD'S LETTER. Senator P. F. Bayard, in his letter regret-ting his inability to be present, dwells strongly upon what he terms the maladmin-istration proven to exist in nearly every de-partment of the executive branch of govern-

partment of the executive branch of government. Ho says:

"Of what material the Republican convention to assemble in your great city is to be composed may be learned by an examination of the composition of the Louisiana delegation, headed by an individual now under indictment for bribery, accompanied by a band of mercentries and political camp followers. Under such conditions, how idle to hope for civil service or tariff reform, or reform of any kind, from a party of such antecedents, such composition and such inevitable administration in the future should it unhappily be permitted to continue misgovernment of the country.

J. Sterling Morton, of Nebraska, spoke

J. Sterling Mercop, of Nebtaska, spoke upon the five topic, "Roduction of Taxatton, or Tariff for Revenue Only." In the course

For one, I am not afred to make this issue, because I believe sincerely that it is an issue of truth and right and justice against falschood and wrong and injustice. Neither the Republican party nor any other political organization can long maintain itself before an intelligent, reasoning people by the advocacy of unequal and unjust taxation. The greatest good to the greatest number has become a proverh among Americans, and yet all protective tariff legislation has been born of a desire to legislate for the few and against the many. Every citizen engaged in a bread-winning avocation has somewhere an interest that is antagonistic to a large proportion of his follows. The bread-maker and baker wishing to accumulate great profits desire a high price for bread; but the consumers of bread, who greatly outnumber the bakers, are always anxious to huy bread at the lowest possible rate at which it can be produced. The physician has an anti-social interest in the lill-eath and disease of the community in which he lives, because when epidemics provail fees flow in, his business becomes renumerative; but the patients are a larger number than the doctors, happily, all over the world. The mischief of the protective tariff is that, at bottom, it is looking to the well-being and advancement of the anti-social interests of the few, forgeting entirely the welfare of the multitude of consumers. It takes care of the doctor and forgets the patients of the few, forgeting entirely the welfare of the multitude of consumers. It takes care of the doctor and forgets the protective duties on sugar; thus the protective duties on the protective duties on the protective duties on the protective duties on the protective duties of the people who consume the protective duties of the people who consume the protects are fogoton.

Govornor Glick, of Kansas, in a letter on Govornor Glick, of Kansas, in a letter on The three years of nominal prohibition in Kansas, during which the law has been openly defled in many localities, while in other communities where there is a stronger temperance sentiment the attempts at the enforcement of the law have been followed by excessive logislation loading down the dockets of the courts with petty and malicious prosecutions, and menstrous cost bills, and engendering strife in neighborhoods, together with inducing the clantestheness of intexticating liquors in elab-rooms, and in the homes of the people, thereby increasing, rather than diminishing, the ovil of intemperance, all powerfully attest the failure of profibitory legislation and point to the manifest advantage of a well regulated license system. It is upon this principle of a wise, judicious license system, which has aver been the accepted policy of the party, that the Democracy, which is the true temperance party, must stand. This has been dumenstrated to be the highest attainable temperance. It is undoubtedly true that the liquor traffic, inchecked, has a tendency to "stimulate discords in the community; to cause drumbonness; to increase paupurism and crime; to bring distress to many families and cause individual degredation." But the remody for those evils is not abortive attempts at prohibition, which have always failed, but in a wise and efficient license system, supported by public sentiment, which has been demonstrated to be the only practicable solution of these ovils. We are living under a republican form of government, of and by the people, who make the laws as well as enforce them, and no community will enforce a law upon itself which is highly distastful to it. Hence, in states experimenting with prohibitory horigisalition, through the general disregard of the scattute by efficials, juries, etc., the very roverse exists of what is attend at by the friends of prohibition, but noted t

Its excellent condition is largely owing to the aid which has been secured outside of the municipal appropriation; and mow that it is under the control of the city it should be placed beyond the need of private help. The rent, librarians salary and other necessary expenses make the cost of running the library between $700 and $200 with the use of all yearsonable economy, and to meet the resonable economy, and to meet the public want there should be at least $300 to $400 available for the purchase of books. It has always been conceded to be a good show, but this year it will be preemmently so-a miniature world beneath canvas, so to speak. There are only two shows in the country which willexceed it in size, and so far as its ring performance and its display of animals are concerned, chief points of attraction in exhibitions of its kind, it is excelled by none. Mr. Robbins has secured the best of arenic talent-stars like Charles W. Fish, the champion bare back rider, Madame Martha, the queen of the Arena, Pauline Dubski, the beautiful young Hungarian equestrienne; Prince Satsuma, Buisley, the man bird, and many others equally well known. As children form a large percentage of the natrous of the circus, especial care has been taken to provide the rings with necialties which will astonish, amuse and justruct the little ones. There will be an abundance of these highly sensational performances which the public deaire to behold, and there will also be plenty of acts which serve to instruct as well as to amuse.
